18 July 2014 on the panel discussion on preventing and eliminating child, early and forced marriage, and the summary report of the UNGA panel discussion of 5 September 2014,

PP7 Recognizing that child, early and forced marriage is a harmful practice that violates abuses, or impairs human rights and is linked to and perpetuates other harmful practices and human rights violations, that these violations have a disproportionately negative impact on women and girls, and underscoring States' human rights obligations and commitments to promote and protect the human rights and fundamental freedoms of women and girls and to prevent and eliminate the practice of child, early and forced marriage,

PP8 Deeply concerned about the continued prevalence of child, early and forced marriage worldwide, including that approximately 15 million girls are married every year before they reach 18 years, and that more than 700 million women and girls alive today were married before their 18th birthday,

PP9 Noting with concern that the continued prevalence of child, early and forced marriage has had a negative impact on the achievement of Millennium Development Goals 1-6, and their overarching aims, including in the areas of gender equality and the empowerment of women and girls, poverty reduction, education, maternal and child mortality, health, including sexual and reproductive health, and recognizing that child, early and forced marriage continues to impair sustainable development, inclusive economic growth and social cohesion,

PP10 Noting with concern that poverty and insecurity are among the root causes of child, early and forced marriage, that child, early and forced marriage remains common in rural areas and among the poorest communities, and recognizing that the immediate alleviation and eventual eradication of extreme poverty must remain a high priority for the international community,

PP10bis Recognizing also that child, early and forced marriage is itself a barrier to development and helps to perpetuate the cycle of poverty and that the risk of child, early and forced marriage is also exacerbated in conflict and humanitarian crisis situations,

PP11 Recognizing that child, early and forced marriage is inherently linked to deep-rooted gender inequalities, norms and stereotypes, and harmful practices, perceptions and customs that are obstacles to the full enjoyment of human rights and that the persistence of child, early and forced marriage places children, in particular the girl child, at risk of being exposed to and encountering various forms of discrimination and violence throughout her life,

PP12 Recognizing that child, early and forced marriage undermines women's and girls' autonomy and decision-making in all aspects of their lives and continues to be an impediment to improvements in the education, economic and social status of women and girls in all parts of the world, and that the empowerment of and investment in women and girls is critical for economic growth, including the eradication of poverty, as well as the meaningful participation of women and girls in all decisions that affect them, PP13 Noting with concern that child, early and forced marriage disproportionally affects girls who have received little or no formal education, and is itself a significant obstacle to educational opportunities for girls and young women, in particular girls who are forced to drop out of school owing to marriage and/or childbirth, and recognizing that educational opportunities are directly related to women's and girls' empowerment, employment, and economic opportunities, and their active participation in economic, social and cultural development, governance and decision-making,

PP14 Recognizing that child, early and forced marriage constitutes a serious threat to multiple aspects of the physical and psychological health of women and girls, including but not limited to their sexual and reproductive health, significantly increasing the risk of early, frequent and unintended pregnancy, maternal and newborn mortality and morbidity, obstetric fistula, and sexually transmitted infections, including HIV/AIDS as well as increasing vulnerability to all forms of violence, and that every girl and woman at risk of or affected by these practices must have equal access to quality services like education, counselling, shelter and other social services, psychological, sexual and reproductive health care services and medical care,

OP1 Urges all States to enact, enforce and uphold laws and policies aimed at preventing and ending child, early and forced marriage and protecting those at risk, and ensure that marriage is entered into only with the informed, free and full consent of the intending spouses,

OP2 Calls on States, with the participation of relevant stakeholders, including girls, religious and community leaders, civil society, women's and human rights groups, men and boys, and youth organizations, to develop and implement holistic, comprehensive and coordinated responses and strategies to eliminate child, early and forced marriage and to support already married girls, adolescents, and women including through strengthening of child protection systems, protection mechanisms such as safe shelters, access to justice and the sharing of best practices across borders,

OP2bis Calls upon States and the international community to create an environment in which the wellbeing of women and girls is ensured, inter alia, by cooperating, supporting and participating in efforts for the eradication of extreme poverty, and reaffirming that investment in women and girls and the protection of their rights are among the most effective ways to end the practice of child, early and forced marriage,

OP2ter Calls upon States to promote and protect women and girls' right to education through an enhanced emphasis on quality education, including catch-up and literacy education for those who did not receive formal education, while recognizing that education is one of the most effective ways to prevent and end child, early and forced marriage and to allow for married women and girls to make more informed choices about their lives,

OP3 Urges governments to promote and protect the human rights of all women and girls, including their right to have control over and decide freely and responsibly on matters related to their sexuality, including sexual and reproductive health, free of coercion, discrimination and violence, and adopt and accelerate the implementation of laws, policies and programmes which protect and enable the enjoyment of all human rights and fundamental freedoms, including their reproductive rights in accordance with the Programme of Action of the International Conference on Population and Development, the Beijing Platform for Action and their review outcomes,

OP3bis Encourages relevant UN entities and agencies to continue to collaborate with and support member states in developing and implementing strategies and policies at the national, regional and international levels to prevent and eliminate child, early and forced marriage, as well as to support already married girls, adolescents, and women,

OP4 Recalls the inclusion of a target on eliminating all harmful practices, such as child, early and forced marriage in the outcome document of the Open Working Group on Sustainable Development Goals, recognizes child, early and forced marriage as a barrier to development and the full realization of women's and girls' human rights, and recognises the need to give due consideration to its inclusion in the post-2015 development agenda in order to help ensure progress towards the elimination of child, early and forced marriage,

OP5 Requests the Secretary-General to submit a comprehensive report before the end of its 70th session on progress towards ending child, early and forced marriage worldwide since A/HRC/26/22, with particular emphasis on high prevalence countries, best practices for programs aimed at ending the practice and supporting already married women and girls, gaps in research and implementation, and legal reforms and policies related to this matter, using information provided by Member States, United Nations bodies, agencies, funds and programmes, civil society and other relevant stakeholders,

OP6 Also decides to consider the issue of child, early and forced marriage at its 71st session under the item entitled "Promotion and protection of the rights of children" taking into account the multifaceted and worldwide nature of the issue of child, early and forced marriage.
